

GAME-X ACADEMY

Leader vs. Boss

About the Course

Most of us understand there is a difference between being a boss and being a leader. "Boss" is a title given to you while "leader" is a descriptor you have to earn. ... Leadership can make or break an organization, and the good news is that leadership skills can be cultivated to help your business run more smoothly. GAME-X will guide you through different personality types and will help you to identify the steps you may need to take to become more effective in your position and earn personal and work satisfaction by becoming a leader.

Who is this course for? Land based Operators,

Role function ideas: Marketing managers, Slot managers, Gaming managers, F&B Managers, General managers, Guest relation managers, customer experience managers, COO, CMO,

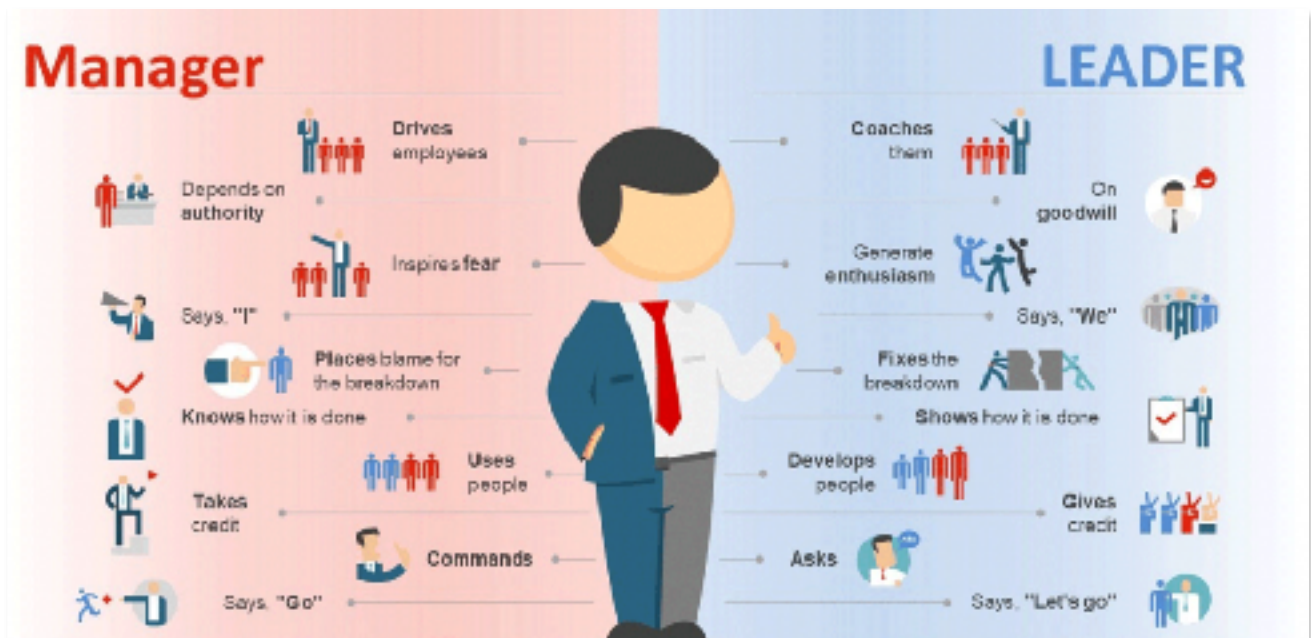

Price: € 299.00 EUR + VAT

Duration: 6 hours

Place: Online / digital study room

Becoming a manager is not just a determinative step in our career, but a huge responsibility.

From the moment of wearing a jacket the manager is in the center of the stage, all movements, decisions, words said, personal grooming, gestures may become motivating or exemplary in a positive or negative way to employees and customers as well.

By the nature of the gaming industry, managers are selected from lower positions after long years spent there.

The newly promoted manager most of the time feels lost, insecure, and stressed in the new position. Because of the responsibility and insecurity, there is a huge risk that the person who was great in a lower position miss performs and becomes a boss! A boss

A leader is a person who leads his followers and guides them in different matters. On the other hand, a boss is someone who is the owner of the business and in charge of the workplace.

who dictates, who doesn't take circumstances into consideration, who knows everything better, there is no other way but his/her.

What is wrong with this? What is the difference between a boss and a leader?

The leader leads by example is always ready to learn from anyone and from any situation, always considers the circumstances and environment to make the best decision under the company's interests, mission statements.

The leader is respected, whereby the boss is feared. Employees are more likely to perform outstandingly under a leader, whereby an operation that is led by a boss will get average performance.

GAME-X has the perfect tool to help the evolution process of becoming a future leader or to become a better leader if already holding the position. During the course, we provide useful tools to understand who you are, where are you and where you want to go? We will show you the way to earn respect, to lead by example, to become a leader, and effectively manage an operation!

For decades, people have been trying to figure out whether great leaders are born with innate leadership skills or if you can develop people into leaders. Recent scientific studies suggest that leadership is 30% genetic and 70% learned. These findings propose that leaders are made not born.

“It’s hard to beat a person who never gives up.”
-BABE RUTH